

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

The Duke of Northumberland, K.G.

WE cannot more appropriately introduce the lineage of the Percys, than by the following extract from a periodical work of great ability and influence,*—the Percys whose nobility dates as remotely as the sovereignty of Normandy, and whose renown, coeval with its nobility, has flourished in every age and co-existed with every generation since.—“Not more famous in arms than distinguished for its alliances,” says the writer to whom we refer, “the House of Percy stands pre-eminent for the number and rank of the families which are represented by the present DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND, whose banner consequently exhibits an assemblage of nearly nine hundred armorial ensigns; among which are those of King HENRY VII., of several younger branches of the Blood Royal, of the Sovereign Houses of France, Castile, Leon, and Scotland, and of the Ducal Houses of Normandy and Brittany, forming a galaxy of heraldic honours altogether unparalleled.”

Arms.—Quarterly. First and fourth, grand quarters, first and fourth, or, a lion ramp. az. (being the ancient arms of the DUKE OF BRABANT and LOVAINE); second and third, gu. three lucies or pikes haurient arg., for LUCY. Second and third, grand quarters, az. five fusils in fesse, for PERCY.

Crest.—On a chateau gu. turned up, erm. a lion statant az., the tail extended.

Supporters.—Dexter a lion ramp. az., sinister a lion ramp. guard. or, ducally crowned of the last, gorged with a collar gobony arg. and az.

Motto.—Esperance en Dieu.

Baronial Shield of the Percys.—Seven quarterings. Quarterly, first and fourth, or, a lion ramp. az., for BRABANT and LOVAINE; second and third, gu. three lucies or pikes haurient arg. two lions, for LUCY. Second, az. five fusils in fesse or, for PANCY. Third, barry of six or and vert, over all a bendlet gu., for POYNINGS. Fourth, gu. three lions passant per pale arg. over all a bend az., for FITZPAYNE. Fifth, or, three piles, meeting in the base point az., for BRYAN. Sixth, gu. on a saltire arg. an annulet sa., for LATIMER. Seventh, quarterly gu. and or, in the first quarter a mullet arg., for VERE.

Holcombe, of Pembrokeshire.

THIS family, which has been settled for nearly two centuries in the county of Pembroke, derives its name from its ancient inheritance, Holcombe, or Holtcombe, co. Devon, where and at Hole it has resided for many descents. (See BURKE'S Landed Gentry.) The present Representative, HARCOURT FORD HOLCOMBE, Esq. Lieutenant-Colonel Royal Artillery, was made a Companion of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, for his distinguished services in the Peninsular War. He is eldest son of the late Rev. Canon William Holcombe, of St. Davids, grandson of Admiral Essex Holcombe, and great-grandson of William Holcombe, Esq. the first of the family who settled in Pembrokeshire, and who was Mayor of Pembroke in 1694.

Arms.—Az. a chev. ar. betw. three men's heads in profile, couped at the shoulders or, wreathed about the temples of the second, for HOLCOMBE; quartering DOWNE and BRUCE.

Crest.—A man's head fullfaced, couped at the breast ppr. wreathed round the temples or and az.

Burnes, of Forfarshire.

THE ARMS of JAMES BURNES, LL.D. F.R.S. Knight of the Royal Guelphic Order, and of Sophia, his wife, daughter of the late Major-General Sir George Holmes, K.C.B. are recorded in the College of Arms, London, and certified by the late Sir William Woods, Clarenceux Registrar of the Guelphic Order.

DR. BURNES is in the public service in India, where his name is prominently connected (along with that of his brother, the late Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Alexander Burnes, C.B. who fell, together with his brother Charles, at Cabool, Nov. 2, 1841) with our proceedings in Sindh, and the other countries bordering on the Indus. He is a Justice of the Peace for Forfarshire. He married, March 29, 1829, Sophia, daughter of the late Major-General Sir George Holmes, K.C.B. and has issue,—GEORGE, JAMES, and other sons. Sir George Holmes, who was of a Cumberland family, died October, 1816, leaving issue by his wife, Dame Sophia Hamilton, (descended from the chief family of that name, who died August, 1831); first, Charlotte, died May, 1832; second, Sophia, married James Burnes as above; third, Isabella, married Jeffrey Amherst, son of General Sinclair of Lybster; fourth, John, Captain 12th Bombay N.I.; and fifth, Frances.

The name of Burnes is mentioned in a Bull of Pope Nicholas IV. to King Edward I. dated 1290, in which His Holiness acknowledges letters brought to him from England, “quas delecti filii Johannes de Burnes miles, et Gulielmus de Lincolnia, tui nuncii, presentarunt.” In a Writ of Privy Seal by King James V. dated Stirling, 1528, there is also a Johnne Burness described as having been “art and part of the convocation and gadering of our lieges in arrayit battell agains . umq^{ll} Johnne Erle of Caithness.”

The Lord Lyon's patent of arms to Dr. Burnes's family recites, that his father, (by Elizabeth, dau. of the late Adam Glegg, Esq. many years Provost of Montrose,) James Burnes, Esq. a J.P. for Forfarshire, is “son of James Burness, cousin-german to Robert Burns, the celebrated poet,—which James Burness was son of James Burnes, who was the eldest son that lived to have male issue of Robert Burnes of Kinmonth, son of James Burnes at Brawlymuir, son of Walter at Bogjorgan, who was the only son of Walter Campbell of Burnhouse, who fled to the north country during the civil wars in the 17th century, and who, losing the name of Campbell, became known by that of Burnhouse, corrupted by his descendants into Burness, Burnes, and Burns.” This statement rests on information communicated nearly fifty years ago by the Rev. Alexander Greig, episcopal clergyman at Stonehaven, then a very old man, whose mother was one of the granddaughters of the second Walter. It may be added, that Walter Campbell of Burnhouse appears to have been the son of George Campbell and Margaret M'Lellan, his wife, to whom conjointly sasine was granted of a property named Burne in February, 1627; and that Robert at Kinmonth, also mentioned in the patent, was one of four brothers, who, at the commencement of the 18th century, were all substantial leaseholders in Kincardineshire till their participation in the rebellion of 1715, under the banner of George Keith, the tenth and last Earl Marischall, covered them with irretrievable ruin. (Vide CUNNINGHAM'S Life of Burns, and the Poet's letter to Lady Winifred Maxwell Constable, December 16, 1789.)

Arms.—BURNES. Per saltire, az. and gyrony of eight, or and sa. in chief, a wounded lion couchant az. pierced by a spear behind gu. his head resting on a shield, gyrony of eight as above; in base, a holly bush or, surmounted by a crook and bugle-horn saltirewise ar.; with the addition (allusive of the Guelphic Order, and to the "public and meritorious services" of the two brothers in India) of, on a chief gu. within a bordure ar. the White Horse of Hanover between two Eastern gold crowns. [Sic, in the Lord Lyon's patent, and in the Herald's College, London, but it appears that the lion couchant is dispensed with by some members of the family, who bear instead thereof, the crook and bugle-horn in chief.]

Crest.—Issuant from an Eastern crown or, an oak tree shivered, renewing its foliage ppr.

Arms.—HOLMES. Sa. on a fesse embattled, counter embattled ar. betw. three lions ramp. ar. fretty gu. a crescent gu. betw. two tigers' faces ppr.

Crest.—Issuant from an Eastern crown or, a demi tiger ppr. regardant, elevating a standard gu. thereon a crescent ar.

Motto.—Avito evehor honore.

Jones, of Ystrad.

THE JONES' of Ystrad derive from the Jones' of Llansadwrn, a younger branch of the very ancient and once highly distinguished Knightly family of Jones, of Abermarles, in the county of Carmarthen. The late Representative, JOHN JONES, of Capeldewy and Ystrad, Esq. son (by Anna Maria, his wife, eldest daughter and coheir of John Jones, of Crynfryn, in the county of Cardigan, Esq. second son of John Jones, of Tyglyn, Esq.) of Thomas Jones, of Ystrad and Capeldewy, Esq. and great-grandson of Morris Jones, Esq. by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of William Rees, of Capeldewy, Esq. was M.P. for a long series of years, first for Pembroke, and latterly for the county of Carmarthen, of which he was a Deputy Lieutenant. He died 12 Nov. 1842, leaving his sister, MARY ANNE JONES, the present Representative.

Arms.—Ar. a chev. gu. betw. three stags' heads ppr. for JONES of Ystrad; quartering REES of Capeldewy, JONES of Tyglyn, and LEWIS of Llynycrwr.

Crest.—A stag's head erased ppr.

Lindoe, of Norwich.

THE family of Lindoe, originally of Spanish extraction, has been settled for several generations in the City of Norwich, and maternally traces a descent of great antiquity. The present ROBERT FREDERICK LINDOE, M.D. of Wells, in the county of Somerset, Esq. derives, through his grandmother Caroline, daughter of David Barclay, Esq. second son of Robert Barclay, of Ury, Esq.

from Roger de Berkeley, Lord of Berkeley Castle, in the county of Gloucester, before the Conquest, and quarters, in right of his mother Eleanora, the Arms of the family of BAKER, of Michaelmarsh, related to the Bakers, of Hertfordshire.

Arms.—Quarterly, first and fourth, per chev. sa. and ar. three leopards' faces counter-changed, for LINDOE; second and third, or, a greyhound courant betw. two bars sa. for BAKER.

Crest.—A wyvern.

Forster, of Walthamstow, co. Essex.

THOMAS FORSTER, Esq. M. B. Fellow of the Royal Astronomical and Linnæan Societies, eldest son of the late Thomas Furley Forster, of Walthamstow, Esq. author of "Flora Tunbrigensis," and grandson of Edward Forster, of Walthamstow, Esq. Governor of the Russia Company of London, descends from and bears the Arms of the ancient and distinguished Northumbrian family of Forster, of Bambrough Castle. (See BURKE'S Landed Gentry.) Mr. Forster, who was educated at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, is an able and learned writer, the author of "Philozoa, a Discourse on the Condition of Animals," Brussels, 1840; "Pan," a Pastoral Poem; "Discours Preliminaire à l'étude de l'Histoire Naturelle," &c. &c.

Crest.—An arm in armour embowed, holding a broken lance.

Motto.—Ante omnia Sylvæ.

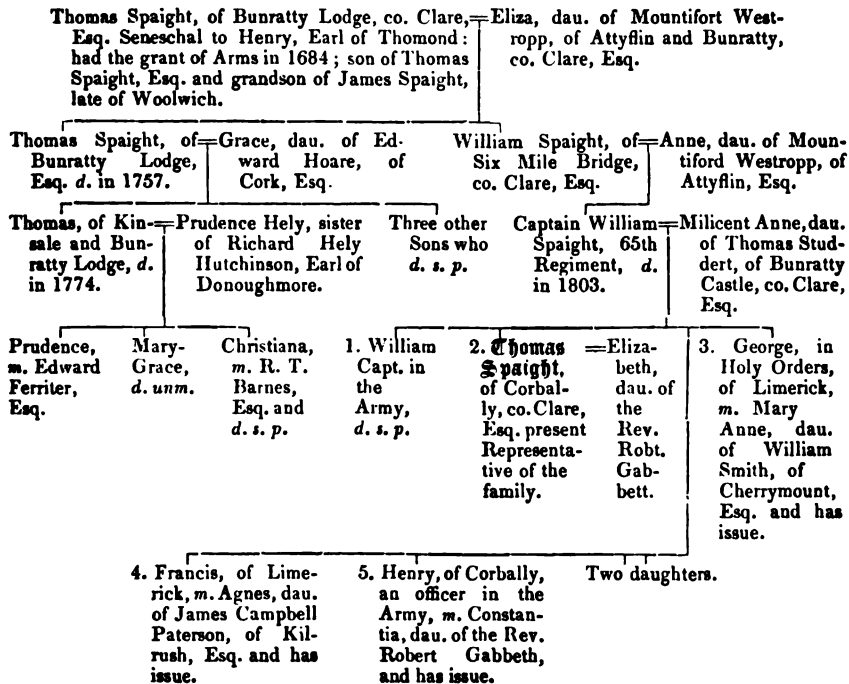

Spaight, of the Counties of Clare and Limerick.

THE family of SPAIGHT, long settled in the County of Clare, but established originally at Woolwich, co. Kent, derives from THOMAS SPAIGHT, of Bunratty Lodge, co. Clare, Esq. seneschal to Henry, Earl of Thomond, to whom Arms were confirmed in 1684. The present Representative is THOMAS SPAIGHT, of Corbally, co. Clare. (See BURKE'S Landed Gentry.)

Arms.—Ar. on a fesse sa. three pheons of the first.

Crest.—A jay ppr.

Motto.—Vi et virtute.

Ralston, of Ralston, in Scotland.

CRAWFORD, in his History of Renfrewshire, says that this very ancient family is descended from the Macduffs, Thanes of Fife, one of whom had a son named Ralph, who obtained a grant of lands in Renfrewshire, and called them after himself, Ralphstoune, originated the family surname. He refers to Charters, &c. wherein the Ralstons are named as early as 1272 and 1346. JOHN DE RALSTOUNE, who flourished in the reign of James II. of Scotland, rose to the highest honours of the Church and State, obtaining eventually the Bishopric of Dunkeld in 1448, and the office of Lord High Treasurer in 1449. (See BURKE'S Landed Gentry.)

Hutchison, of Ireland.

THE HUTCHISONS of Ireland descend from an ancient family in Scotland; their immediate ancestor settled at Belfast after the battle of the Boyne, where he distinguished himself as a Major of Cavalry in King William's army, whose helmet was long considered an heirloom in the family; his grandson JOHN HUTCHISON, a rigid Presbyterian of the old school, removed to Dublin about the year 1750; he was possessed of the extensive district of Cooliskane, otherwise Quinsborough, barony of Ophaly, county of Kildare, remarkable as never having been subject to crown or quit rent, as given free thereof by Charles II. to his brother James, Duke of York, forfeited in the Great Rebellion of 1641, and subsequently forfeited by James the Second on his abdication, and granted in like manner by the Commissioners of Queen Anne under the act 11 William III. The fee simple of the land still remains vested in his descendants as after. This JOHN HUTCHISON had three sons and a daughter; one of his grandsons, WILLIAM HUTCHISON, was for many years Chief Accountant in the Bank of England, and died unmarried in 1828, his youngest son E. HUTCHISON, Esq. married Elizabeth, third daughter of Redmond Morres, Esq. (brother of Lord Viscount Mount Morres) a king's counsel and member of the Irish House of Commons in many successive Parliaments for the city of Dublin, whose eldest son was afterwards created Viscount Frankfort de Montmorency (see BURKE'S Peerage, &c.) The issue of this marriage was several daughters and three sons:—viz; I. John Hutchison, Barrister-at-law, now of Dublin and Cooliskane or Quinsborough, county Kildare, who married, 1st, Georgina, second daughter of the late Reverend James Baden Carpenter, Rector of Elstead, co. Sussex, and of St. Olave in the city of Chichester, nearly related in the maternal line to the ancient family of Tindal of Sussex (of which the Right Honourable Sir Nicholas Tindal, Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, England, is a distinguished member), and by her, who died in 1823, he has an only daughter; he married, 2ndly, Elizabeth, relict of Major Jacob, nephew and heir of Colonel Deaken, Groom of the Bed-chamber to the Duke of Cumberland brother of George III., and a Colonel of the Guards: II. Redmond Morres Hutchison, deceased, leaving issue,—and III. William Hutchison an officer of the Royal Navy, with issue.

Money Kyrle, of Much Marcle, co. Hereford, of Whetham, co. Wilts, and of Pitsford,
co. Northampton.

THE REVEREND WILLIAM MONEY KYRLE, of Hom House, in the parish of Much Marcle, of Whetham, and of Pitsford, M. A., of Oriel College, Oxford, representative of the families of KYRLE, ERNLE, WASHBOURNE, STOUGH-TON, &c. bears a shield of thirty-four quarterings, as registered in H. M. College of Arms.

The first on record of the family of KYRLE (whose name has been variously written, Crul, Crull, Cryll, and sometime Curl), was ROBERT CRUL, of Altone, or Old Town, near Ross, who resided, in 1295, at Homme, now Hom Green, in the same neighbourhood. From him directly derived THOMAS KYRLE, who established himself at Hom House, in the parish of Much Marcle, A. D. 1573, which has ever since continued the chief seat of his descendants. With this gentleman the annexed pedigree commences, omitting, for brevity's sake, the issue of his eldest brother, Walter Kyrle of Walford, from whom derived, among others, John Kyrle, Pope's celebrated "Man of Ross."

The family of ERNLE, which is of Saxon origin, deduced its title from the village of Earnley or Ernle, in Sussex, so styled from the Saxon words "Earn" and "Lege,"—the place or habitation of eagles; in reference to which three eagles are borne on the shield of Ernle.

The family of WASHBOURNE was of knightly degree, previous to the time of Edw. III. and derived its name from the hamlet of Wasseborne (literally the "Water brook"), in Worcestershire. Their crest embodied an opposite element, being "A bundle of fire proper."

The STOUGHTONS of St. John's, were the second branch of the very ancient stock of Stoughton of Stoughton, so called from the place of their first settlement in Surrey, after the Conquest, viz: "Stoke" or "Stoche," and "Tun," signifying "enclosure." For ample details, refer to the Dictionary of the Landed Gentry.

William Money Kyle,
of Much Marele, Co. Hertford

Pridham, of Plymouth, co. Devon.

The family of Pridham derives from the ancient house of Prudhome, long seated in the county of Devon. The identity of the name is established by Lysons, and other eminent antiquaries. The heiress of Prudhome, of Upton-Prudhome, married into the family of Whiting, temp. Eow. III. and conveyed large hereditary estates; and subsequently William Feilding, ancestor to the Earls of Denbigh, by marriage with Joan, dau. of William Prudhome, acquired in right of his wife, the manor of Newnham Paddox, in the county of Warwick, which has since continued the chief residence of the Denbigh family. The Barton of Pridhamsleigh, at Staverton, near Totness, was among the various possessions of the Prudhomes. The Plymouth branch removed from the neighbourhood of Ottery St. Mary, during the last century, and is at present represented by GEORGE PRIDHAM, of Northview House, in the parish of St. Andrew, Esq.

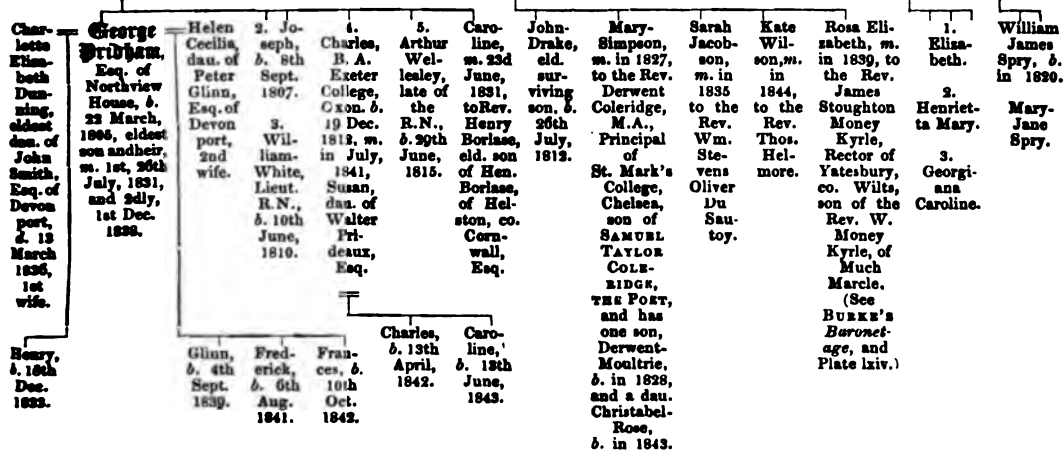

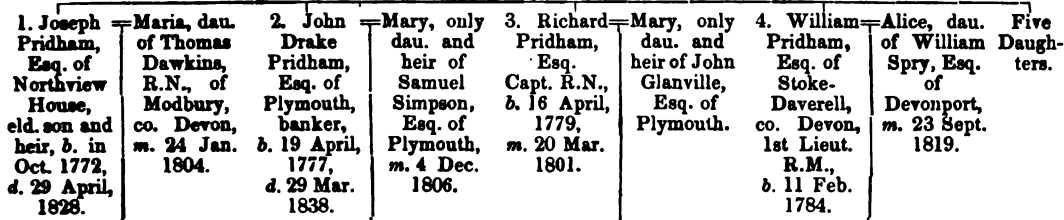

Arms.—As recorded in her Majesty's College of Arms, Az. on a pile or. three lions' heads erased of the field.

Jolliffe, of Ammerdown Park, co. Somerset.

THE name of this family, whether a corruption from Norman-French, or otherwise, was anciently written JOLI. The family is of considerable antiquity, in the counties of Stafford and Worcester, and the pedigree in the possession of the senior members comprises intermarriages with many eminent and noble houses. The present JOHN TWYFORD JOLLIFFE, Esq. of Ammerdown Park, and his brother, the Rev. Thomas Robert Jolliffe, surviving sons of the late THOMAS SAMUEL JOLLIFFE, Esq. M.P. for Petersfield, by Mary-Anne, his wife, dau. and heiress of — Twyford, Esq. of Kilmersdon, co. Somerset, and grandsons (by his second wife Mary, dau. and heiress of Samuel Holden, Esq. of London, of John Jolliffe, Esq. M.P. for Petersfield, in 1763 — whose eldest son, William, M.P. was grandfather of Sir William George Hylton Jolliffe, Bart., bear a quartered coat for JOLLIFFE and TWYFORD.

The following particulars of the late respected Thomas Samuel Jolliffe, Esq. M.P., are from the Bath Herald, of the period of his decease, in 1824.

“ Descended from an ancient family, which dates its origin from the incursion of the Norman Conqueror, and collaterally allied to some of the chief nobles of the kingdom, Mr. Jolliffe filled an elevated station in society, with distinguished ability and credit. Of late years he resided almost entirely in the country ; but he formerly mingled in the brilliant circles of the metropolis and sat in several parliaments during the government of Lord North, and the first period of Mr. Pitt's administration. In the House of Commons, as in every other situation, he sustained the character of a high-minded and scrupulously honourable gentleman. Of the disinterested and upright principle which universally governed his conduct, he, early in life, gave an eminent proof, by resisting a very flattering overture, which embraced high hereditary rank, as well as pecuniary emolument, rather than desert those connexions whose political views he had conscientiously adopted. Mr. Jolliffe had considerable property in various parts of England, but his chief estates were in Somersetshire, for which county he was several years since appointed High Sheriff, and served the office with a degree of splendour which has seldom been equalled ; the whole of his retinue on that occasion being selected from his principal tenantry. As a magistrate, he was acute, active, humane, upright, intrepid, and intelligent ; his opinions were received with the sincerest deference, and his decisions heard with respectful acquiescence. On the institution of the Fencible Dragoons, at an important crisis of the late war, he was appointed to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, a situation for which he was peculiarly qualified by his habits of activity, his address in the management of his horse, and his personal accomplishments. Since the reduction of the regiment he resided almost exclusively on his extensive domain, where in the calm scenes of domestic retirement he became the centre of a grateful and admiring circle."

Arms.—Quarterly. First and fourth, arg. on a pile az. three dexter gauntlets of the field for JOLLIFFE. Second and third, arg. two bars sa. on a canton, a cinque-foil for TWYFORD.

Crest.—A cubit arm erect, verted and cuffed, the sleeve charged with a pile arg. the hand grasping a sword ppr.

Smijth, of Hill Hall and Horeham Hall, co. Essex, and Attlebro' co. Norfolk, and Cambertwell, co. Surrey, Bart.

ROGER, a natural son of EDWARD the Black Prince, styled DE CLARENDON, from the place of his birth, is the recorded ancestor of the family of Smijth, of which was JOHN SMIJTH, styled cousin german of King EDWARD VI., and in that monarch's reign sent ambassador to Spain. He resided at Saffron Walden, Essex, and was High Sheriff of Herts and Essex, 30 HEN. VIII. By Agnes, his wife, dau. and coheir of the ancient house of Charnock, of Lancashire, he had, with other children, SIR THOMAS SMIJTH, knighted in 1548, P. C. and Principal Secretary of State to Edward VI. and Queen Elizabeth, and their Ambassador to France, &c., Chancellor of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, and, as says his biographer Strype, the best scholar of his time, and a most admirable philosopher, orator, linguist and moralist. He d. at Hill Hall, 12 August 1577, æt. 65, and was buried in the chancel of the church of Theydon Mount, under a sumptuous monument. As he left no issue, the succession devolved by his will on his brother, GEORGE SMIJTH, from whom derives the present representative, SIR EDWARD BOWYER SMIJTH, Bart. of Hill Hall, Horeham Hall and Attlebro', who bears a shield of seventy quarterings, as REGISTERED in H. Hogg, of Church View, and Cartron, co. Roscommon.

THE surname of Hogg, one of local origin, is of great antiquity in Scotland, coeval with the retirement of Gospatrick, Earl of Northumberland, into North Britain, about the time of the Norman Conquest: it became hereditary in the reign of MALCOLM CANMORE, and was first assumed by the proprietors of the lands of Hogstown, in the shire of Angus: for we find in the bond of submission given in 1296, by the Barons of Scotland, to Edward the First of England, as recorded in Prynne's History, that ALEXANDER HOGG, ancestor of the family of whom we are treating, is styled Alexander de Hogstoun. From him lineally derived (see BURKE'S Dictionary of the Landed Gentry, supplement), ALEXANDER HOGG, of Hogstoun, who, in the reign of JAMES III. gave a charter of alienation to Sir Alexander Hume. He was founder of the House of Harcarse, in Berwickshire, from which sprung SIR ROGER HOGG, Senator of the College of Justice, and also the Rev. Macqueen, of Corrybrough.

THE tribe, of which this family is the head, is known in the Highlands as the clan Revan, and is of great antiquity, being originally of the Macdonalds, Lords of the Isles; the connection with whom, after a separation of more than three centuries, was recognised so recently as 1778, by Alexander, Lord Macdonald, who, having raised a Highland regiment, conferred the commission of lieutenant on a son of Donald Macqueen, of Corrybrough, intimating his appointment by letter, dated 26th Jan. 1778, (now in possession of the Macqueens,) in which his lordship thus writes: "It does me great honour to have the sons of chieftains in the regiment, and as the Macqueens have been invariably attached to our family, to whom I believe we owe our existence, I am proud of the nomination."

Early in the 15th century, Roderick Dhu Revan Macsweene, or Macqueen, quitted the Isles on receiving a grant of territory, including amongst others the lands of Corrybrough, since which period his descendants have formed a branch of the powerful clan Chattan, under whose standard they fought at the battle of Harlawe in 1411. The other families of Macqueen are branches of this clan, the chieftainship being vested in Macqueen of Corrybrough as lineal representative of Roderick Dhu Revan.—See Shaw's History of Province of Moray, p. 97; Documents in possession of Mackintosh of Mackintosh, chief of clan Chattan; also the public records in the Register House, Edinburgh, where this family is entered in the Land Register of Scotland from 1563, downwards. Ormerod, of Tyldesley and Sedbury.

GEORGE ORMEROD, of Tyldesley in Lancashire, and of Sedbury Park in Gloucestershire, Esq. Hon. D.C.L. Oxford, F.R.S. F.S.A. and F.G.S., is representative of this collateral branch of ORMEROD of Ormerod, the arms of which are given in the engraving annexed, together with three of his maternal quarterings; namely—2, JOHNSON of TYLDESLEY; 3, WAREING of Walmersley; 4, CROMPTON of Hacking—all of Lancashire.

The descents of the parent line and of this branch are recorded in the College of Arms, and will also be found in the several Histories of Lancashire and Cheshire, Dr. Whitaker's History of Whalley, and Burke's Landed Gentry. Heraldic allowance of the arms was first made in Camden's Visitation of Somersetshire in 1623, but they had long been borne prescriptively by the eldest line, which, as early as the reign of Henry III., had assumed its name from its estate of ORMERODE, a dependency of the Honour of Clithero, within which it is situated, being once (as shown by the local as well as Saxon import of the word) an "Essart," or "Rode," detached from the original forests of that wild and mountainous region.

The IMPALEMENT contains a selection from a numerous series of quarterings belonging to the wife of the present representative of this branch of the family, SARAH, daughter of the late JOHN LATHAM, M.D. F.R.S. of Bradwall Hall, Cheshire, sometime President of the Royal College of Physicians of London.

Arms of ORMEROD. Or, three bars gules, in chief, a lion passant of the second.

Mignon, of Mignonville.

THE family of Mignon is originally of English extraction, and deduces its paternal descent from Sir William de la More, the ancestral chief of the ancient house of that name, who possessed More Hall and Bank Hall, both in the county palatine of Lancaster, for a long series of generations. Sir William accompanied Edward III. to France, fought at the battle of Cressy in 1346, and was advanced to the highest military order in the days of chivalry, that of a Knight Banneret, on the field of Poitiers. About a century afterwards, the successors of this Sir William de la More raised a corps of archers, and hastened to the relief of Louis XI. King of France, when besieged by Charles Duke of Burgundy, and on their being presented at court, His Majesty observing their handsome and martial appearance, exclaimed—"Ce ne sont pas la des Mores, mais des Mignons;" from which the surname of "Mignon" has remained to them.

In the 16th century, during the reign of Charles IX. when civil war broke out between the Catholic and Protestant parties, Mignon's lineal descendant adopted the latter faith, and was one of the most distinguished chiefs of the Huguenots, and took a conspicuous part in the numerous victories of his party, between the years 1580 and 1586, in conjunction with the celebrated Duke de Sully. At the battle of Coutras in Guienne, Mignon was chief Commandant of Artillery, and to his exertions was the King of Navarre, (afterwards Henry IV.) principally indebted for that brilliant victory: for his services on this occasion, Henry IV. sent him the baton of a Marshal of France, the highest military honour which could be paid to a Protestant nobleman, but he was killed soon after at the siege of Nonan Court. His son and successor became page to Henry IV. on that monarch's accession, and was (as his father had likewise been) the confidential friend of the Duke de Sully. The family continued in undisturbed enjoyment of their estates, until the revocation of the edict of Nantz, when the representative of this ancient and noble family was compelled to fly his native country, and arriving at Plymouth, settled himself there as a merchant.

One of the chief ancestors of the different branches of the family of Mignon which flourished in France in the reign of Philip of Valois, acquired the lands of Mignonville near Mantes, William de Landes, Lord of Mignonville, was upwards of a hundred years old when he died. His son allied himself with the noble and ancient House of De la Chaussée of Poitou, which held the Government of Poitiers in 1635. This family also intermarried with the illustrious house of Breçonnet of Tours. Francis Breçonnet, the second of his name, Lord of Leveville, &c., was father of William Breçonnet, by his wife, Anneda Landes, Countess of Mignonville. He was President of the Council, and d. in 1674; by his marriage with Margaret, dau. of John Amelot and Catharine de C'reil, he had several children, of whom one only survived, JOHN, Lord of Mignonville, who d. 25 Dec. 1698, leaving an only son COUNT DE LA CHAUSSEE, who came into Devonshire, as already stated, and had issue—1. John, a merchant, who d. at Plymouth, Feb. 1754. 2. STEPHEN, of whom presently. 3. Mary, m. to Peter Paré, Esq. the lineal descendant of the celebrated Amboise Paré, Surgeon to Francis I., and Henry II., Kings of France. 4. Elizabeth, m. Capt. Pitman, R.N. and was grandmother of Admiral Sir Richard John Strachan, Bart. G.C.B., so distinguished during the late war. The second son—STEPHEN MIGNON, m. 11 March 1746, Mary, eldest dau. of the Rev. Thomas Bishop, of Barnstaple, grand-dau. of Sir John Davie, fifth Bart. of Creedy, and had.—with two elder sons both d. young, and two daus. vis. Mary, m. John Innes, Esq., and Elizabeth Mussell, m. to Joseph May, Esq. of Plymouth,—an only surviving son—

GEORGE MIGNON, Col. in the army, who served with great distinction in the campaigns in India, under Generals Goddard and Abercrombie, and Lords Cornwallis and Harris. At the assault at Seringapatam, he led the whole flank companies of the Bombay Army, and obtained, immediately after the battle, a divisional command through the recommendation of the Duke of Wellington (then Sir Arthur Wellesley). Col. Mignon m. a dau. of Robert Taylor, Esq. of the Bombay Civil Service, and d. in Nov. 1819, leaving, with other issue, a son—

ROBERT MIGNON, Esq. b. 17 Oct. 1803, Capt. in the Fusileers, Bombay Army, who m. 14 May 1822, Mary Margaret dau. of Joshua Johnson Oddy, Esq. of Rasing Hall, and Darnal, both in co. York, and has issue :

1. Robert-James, b. 14 Oct. 1823.
2. Franklin-Phillipps, b. 31 July, 1829.
3. Edward-Adolphus Seymour, b. 21 July, 1831.

"Now—Esperance! Percy! and set on."

SHAKESPEARE.

"Esperance en Dieu" is still the legend of the Percy: of whom, in relation to this motto, it has been elegantly said: "At one moment the provincial monarch of unmeasured lands, the lord of impregnable fortresses, and the chief of countless vassals: the next the tenant of a prison, from which there was seldom any other escape than death. These vicissitudes of fortune taught them the instability of all human greatness, and that the only sure trust is 'Esperance en Dieu.'"—Quarterly Review, No. cxliii. See the able "Sketch of the Male Descendants of the Second House of Percy," by W. E. Surtees, Esq. D.C.L.
